

NAMS Certified Menopause Practitioner (NCMP) 2011 Certification Maintenance Application

“The North American Menopause Society (NAMS) congratulates you for achieving certification status as a NAMS Certified Menopause Practitioner (NCMP). We appreciate your choosing NAMS to provide a measurement of your competency in the field. This document has been prepared to assist those whose certification expires at the end of 2011. Maintain this prestigious designation for another three years and be listed in the “Find a Clinician” section of the website.”

NAMS Mission is to promote the health and quality of life of all women during midlife and beyond through an understanding of menopause and healthy aging.

Certification Expiration

The NAMS Certified Menopause Practitioner (NCMP) certification is valid for a period of three years. For example, if you received your certification at any time during calendar year 2009, you have through December 31, 2011, to maintain it. This expiration date is listed on your certificate. If you no longer have your certificate and do not know your expiration year, please contact NAMS. This booklet has been developed to assist those whose expiration year is 2011.

Maintenance Options

To maintain certification status, you have two options:

- Reexamination or
- Submission of appropriate continuing education hours.

The fee for either option is the same:

- $200 (U.S. funds) for NAMS members;
- $400 (U.S. funds) for nonmembers.

Detailed instructions are found on the pages that follow.

“Find a Clinician” Listing

As of 2012, the “Find a Clinician” searchable database on the NAMS website will include only those who have a current NCMP certification. This feature is a public service available to women seeking a healthcare provider in their region who specializes in menopausal health.

Revocation of Certification

Please note that your certification may be revoked for any of the following: falsification of an application or documentation provided with the application; failure to pay the required fees; misrepresentation of certification status; or after review of the responses to the questions on page 6 of this application. NAMS provides the appeal mechanism for challenging revocation of the certification. It is the responsibility of the individual to initiate the appeal process by written request to NAMS within 30 days of the notification of revocation.

Maintenance Option #1: Reexamination

To maintain your certification through reexamination, you must:

- Meet the current eligibility requirements and
- Pass the current examination prior to December 31, 2011.

Currently, NAMS offers the examination during the spring and immediately prior to the Society's Annual Meeting each fall. Please see the 2011 Candidate Handbook for details and an application (www.menopause.org/compexam.aspx) or contact NAMS.

If your certification expires or is revoked by NAMS, you may no longer use the certification. If you choose to maintain your certification status by reexamination, your NAMS Certified Menopause Practitioner (NCMP) certification will expire if you do not pass the exam by the deadline of December 31, 2011.

Maintenance Option #2: Continuing Education

To maintain your certification status through continuing education, you must:

- Meet the current eligibility requirements
- Provide proof that you have earned a total of 45 credit hours of continuing medical education (CME) from an accredited institution between the date you sat for the exam in 2009 and December 31, 2011
- Provide proof that, of the 45 required credit hours of CME, 15 credit hours were awarded by NAMS
- Submit the required documentation, plus the appropriate fee, to NAMS between July 15, 2011, but before December 31, 2011.

NAMS credit hours are required because the Society wants to be certain that adequate menopause-related education has occurred. NAMS is continually developing CME activities, including the Annual Meeting, other live events, NAMS books, and NAMS position statements and special issues published in Menopause (with CME available in print and on the NAMS website). A full listing of NAMS activities may be obtained on the NAMS website (www.menopause.org/cme\_activities.aspx). NAMS can also provide you with the current number of NAMS-sponsored CME hours you have already earned.

The remaining 30 credit hours may be CME credit hours offered through NAMS or other accredited organizations or continuing education units (CEUs) or contact hours offered by other accredited organizations.

1 CME credit hour = 60 minutes = 1 contact hour

1 contact hour = 60 minutes = 0.1 CEU

1 CEU = 10 contact hours = 10 credit hours

If your certification expires or is revoked, you may no longer use the certification. If you choose to maintain your certification status by submitting continuing education hours, your NAMS Certified Menopause Practitioner (NCMP) certification will expire if any of the following occurs:

- You do not submit a complete application (pages 5, 6, 7), copy of current licensure, and fee by the deadline of December 31, 2011, or
- Your medical license is not current at the time of the application, or
- You do not submit the required number and type of hours, or
- You do not participate in continuing education activities recognized by NAMS.

After December 31, 2011, this maintenance option will no longer be available to people who certified in 2009. Reexamination is the only way to maintain the certification once it expires.
